Steel Mesh Doors and Gates

Xpanda Security manufactures steel mesh doors and gates to suit individual requirements and measurements. All manufactured steel gates and frames are fully welded for strength against forced entry. All steel is hot dipped galvanised for external applications not requiring powder coating.

The size of the mesh aperture that we use does not allow goods or hands to pass through. Also, where a thumb turn lock is required in emergency exits, it cannot be reached.

Our range includes a variety of indoor and outdoor options and there are few limitations as to what we can manufacture. We do solid bar and mesh gates, or a combination of the two, in different strengths to suit your security requirements.

Powder coating is also available in a range of colours to suit your individual requirement and should you want this option, we recommend zinc plating first for external applications.
